

Say Goodbye to Warehouse Headaches;

We Manage Your
Stock, You Grow
Your Furniture Business

‘Furniture Fulfilment Specialists...’

Your Current Situation

Owning a warehouse as part of your business can be a real headache. You'll be dealing with multiple problems, distracting you from your core business.

Store

Staff challenges

Managing staff and keeping up to date with your statutory duties with health and safety, along with rising costs can mean you are spending more time on human resources than getting the job done.

Goods In

Rising costs and little flexibility

Finding the resources and support to secure a building can mean storing your stock is too expensive, especially if you are just starting out. Most warehouse leases only offer a fixed space with no flexibility to change the size of warehousing as and when you need it. This can lead you to paying for an empty space that you are not using when your stock fluctuates.

Spare Parts

A complex distraction from your business

Running a warehouse might not be your area of expertise and there's a lot to learn. The complexity of managing the operation along with maintenance and repair costs is often not worth the time and money you have to plough into it. Add to this contracts and possible landlord issues and you'll end up spending more time fighting fires than growing your business.
